2. Rana Research Center

We believe in research that delivers strategic understanding requires not only a fundamentally different kind of approach from mere fact gathering, but also a fundamentally different culture in a research company.

Since inception, one of the main objective was to have a research center where the PhD's, lecturers and others can research regarding any focal subject. Research is the way of finding something new in any field or to crossover someone allegedly. The Research department of RU focuses on the following areas:

- Finance
- Accounting
- Economics (theory, policy and practical)
- Econometrics
- Computer Science
- Political Science
- Law
- Journalism and Mass Communication

We are specialized for small markets and offer our clients custom solutions. Advanced methodologies and our deep insights into our clients' industries helps distinguish our service. Our successes come from our good relations with clients, regional partners, employees and local communities.

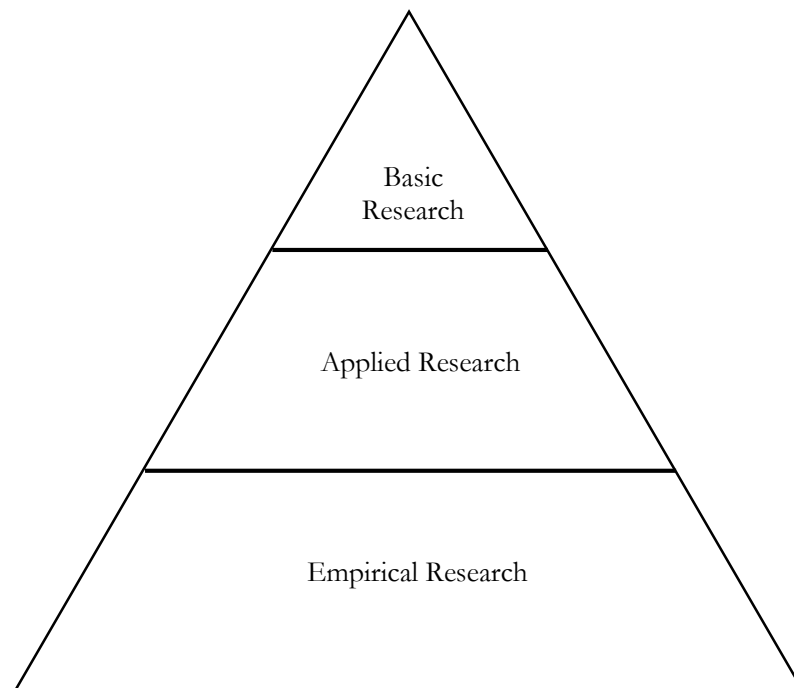

We analyze complex problems of national and international level in order to find out the best solution from which people will be benefited and will assist them to have a sheer consequence in the future researches. Research is a significant way of a continuous process of social intellectualization and of innovation that assist people to step into a new philosophy and principle. Besides, it mitigates the spurious discretions being said. Through finding something new in any related field the research questions that arise from them are interdisciplinary that strengthens and empowers the knowledge of an individual so that to overcome and illustrate a new opinion. The strength and integration of being part of international research increases the university's effectiveness and burgeons the research department successfully.

The purpose for the development of a research center within RU can be classified as;

- To empower and strengthen the knowledge areas at the university and around the country.
- To overcome the demand of the people regarding any academic issues.
- To develop, promote and motivate authoring and compilation.
- To enhance the academic knowledge of the students through research and issuing the qualitative journals.
- To establish, translate and compile academic books

3. Research Triangulation

The research triangle basically categorizes the research types and research performance based on implications and rationality.

Typically Basic Research is also known as pure research and is scientific research that aims to improve scientific theories for better understanding of a phenomena excluding the application while applied research deals with the application of research and answers the hidden questions in which the researchers has limited control over the research setting¹.

Empirical research is based on empirical evidence and is a way of experiencing by means of direct or indirect observation. Such research is based on empiricism values more than other researches because it measures a phenomena based on actual experience².

3.1 Objectives
